	Albania, Belarus, Serbia-Montenegro and Ukraine registered for entering Eurovision 2003. After EBU said they could, EBU changed their mind because it would leave to many of the existing nation's out. EBU therefore asked these countries to wait one year, since it was planned to have qualification rounds from 2004. All of them, except Ukraine agreed.

	- Due to the Covid-19-pandemic , EBU decided on 18 th March 2020 to cancel the Eurovision 2020. EBU and the hosting broadcasters immediately announced that they planned to arrange Eurovision 2021 in Rotterdam, as the 2020 contest where supposed to be. As a replacement for the Eurovision 2020, it where made two 'Eurovision Song Celebration' shows aired on the Semi Final days via the official Eurovision YouTube channel. All the songs where presented in these two shows, in the official running order they was supposed to have in the Semi Final's. In the ESC Guide you will find which Semi Final the song was supposed to be in, and the running order in the line ESC 2020 – Part 1 ore 2, Song number: #. On the day the Final was supposed to be broadcasted, it was made a live TV-show called 'Eurovision – Europe Shine a Light' where all the 2020-artists was celebrated.
	- The ' OGAE Eurovision Fan Contest 2020 ' is the official fanclub's own voting over the 2020 Eurovision-songs. The national clubs gave the jury-vote, and an open internet vote gave the telephone-vote. This is the closest we get to a result from Eurovision 2020, but remember – this is not an official result.

	Armenia announced on March 7 th that they will withdraw from participating in Eurovision 2012 since they feared for the safety of their delegates in Azerbaijan. This is a result of the long-term disagreement between Armenia and Azerbaijan over the Nagorno-Karabakh region. Armenia was supposed to participate in the first half of the second semifinal. ARMTV planned an internal selection for Eurovision 2012, and had said the song would be announced on March 18 th , but since they withdrew from the contest there is not known which song that should have participated for Armenia in Baku.

EUROVISION SONG CONTEST SEMI-FINAL 1, RESULT: PLACE: 10 POINTS: 122 EUROVISION FINAL: YES
A statement from EBU made four days after Eurovision 2019 told that the Belarussian jury was dismissed since they revealed their votes from the first Semi-Final, which is a breach on the rules of the contest. As a result of that EBU and their voting partner, Digame, created a substitute aggregated result to serve as the Belarussian votes in the Grand Final. This substitute votes was also approved by the voting monitor, Ernst & Young. But later on, the review of the voting revealed that a human error had resulted in the use of the incorrect aggregated result. Thereby the aggregated votes from the Belarussian jury had to be changed into the correct ones – resulting in several changes in the points and places for several of the participating songs. But it had no impact of the winner or the top four songs of the contest, that kept their place also after the correction of the votes.

EUROVISION SONG CONTEST SEMI-FINAL 1, RESULT: PLACE: -- POINTS: -- EUROVISION FINAL: --
Two days after BTRC announced that Galasy ZMesta would represent them in Eurovision 2021, EBU released a statement that the Belarus had to send a modified version or a new song, since «Ya nauchu tebya» has political lyrics that are a breach of the Eurovision rules. On March 26 th it was announced by EBU that BTRK submitted a new song by Galasy ZMesta, but this song was also in breach of the rules of the Eurovision – and because of this, Belarus was disqualified from Eurovision 2021.

The 2021 Eurovision was the last contest that Belarus participated in.

At May 28th 2021 EBU announced in a press release that the EBU Executive Board had suspended the Belarussian broadcaster BTRK. The suspension of membership was a reaction to «the suppression of media freedom in Belarus» after the «disputed elections» in the summer of 2020 – as EBU stated. BTRK was given until June 11th to respond to the suspension. Since Belarus was suspended as an EBU-member, the participation of Belarus in Eurovision, will no longer be possible.

The Danish victory came after what some might call a scandal in Eurovision 1963. After the Norwegian jury had given their points (5 to GB, 4 to IT, 3 to CH, 2 to DK and 1 to DE), Katie Boyle said that they had to come back to Norway at the end of the voting, because of a misunderstanding on the phone lines to Oslo. When Norway was called in again, the result of the voting was changed (5 to GB, 4 to DK, 3 to IT, 2 to DE and 1 to CH). Switzerland was actually in the lead with 42 points and Denmark on second with 40 points, before the new voting from Norway. With these votes from Norway, Denmark won Eurovision 1963. According to the Norwegian jury records, the reason for this was that the Norwegian jury had 20 members, and all the other nations had only 10 members, therefore wasn't the Norwegian jury-scrutineer ready with the votes from Norway, since they had not had enough time to count all the votes in Norway. Therefore, did they only give a preliminary vote the first time, and not the official result from the Norwegian jury. Officials from EBU has stated that there was in fact a misunderstanding during the first voting from Norway, and EBU did absolve the Norwegian jury from accusations of local favouritism.

After a total of 30 hours with broadcasting where several singers made cover-versions of other artist, the French people chose Virginie Pouchin to represent France. She won the 'Et si c'était vous? Eurovision 2006' with Céline Dion's "Pour que tu m'aimes encore". She then sang the song that Corneille Nyungura had written for Eurovision "Nous c'est vous". This was a song that the French public felt where a disaster, and in the TV-show "On a tout essayé" the composer was asked to make a new song. A few days in front of the deadline to submit songs to Eurovision 2006, GRF announced that France would participate with a new song called "Il était temps".

	The Greek Government chose to close down ERT in 2014, making Greece fall out of the EBU family. But the newly started NERIT did send an application to become member in EBU, an application still undergoing negotiations in the autumn of 2014. For that reason, EBU gave NERIT a special permission as Greek participant in Eurovision 2014. This special permission was a direct result of the exceptional situation in Greece. NERIT started their broadcasting only 7 days in front of the Eurovision 2014 from Copenhagen.

	According to some reports was this song withdrawn from Eurovision 1998 since Erika was pregnant. But other reports say that she already had released the song in 1991 and were disqualified for that reason. Charlie didn't participate in the national final, but was chosen to participate in Eurovision 1998 for Hungary instead.

	RH had severe economic problems in 1980, as a result the Dutch broadcaster NOS offered to host Eurovision 1980. Because of the short time NOS had, they had no choice but to hold it on a day that is a religious holiday in Israel. Hence Israel withdrew from Eurovision 1980. This is the only time the winning country from the previous year has failed to participate.

	Eden Golan was initially supposed to participate with the song «October rain». But the song was rejected participation by the EBU since the lyrics was to political. KAN then first refused the change the lyrics and said they would withdraw from participating. But later they entered the song «Dance forever», the song that came second in «Hakochav Haba La'Eurovision 2024» - also sung by Eden Golan. This song was also rejected participation by EBU – so KAN re-wrote the lyrics of «October rain» and called it «Hurricane», and this time EBU approved the song.

	The rules of Eurovision state that every country that are participating, is demanded to broadcast the contest live and without any commercial brakes. RAI want to broadcast the contest recorded after midnight, a time when they don't get so high incomes on the commercials. Ore, if they have to broadcast it live, to get commercial brakes, since it then is in their 'prime-time'. Since EBU do not want to allow either, RAI will not participate in Eurovision.
1997	Fiumi di parole Jalisse	Fabio Ricci	Alessandra Drusian	Lucio Fabbri	4	114
	Thanks to the Italian branch of the Eurovision fan club, OGAE, Italy again participated. OGAE-Italy asked RAI if they wanted to participate. When the dead-line for entering neared, RAI had still not entered. Therefore contacted OGAE-Italy, Jalisse, and told about the contest - resulting in that Jalisse said to RAI that they wanted to participate with the winning song from the San Remo Festival. So RAI had no choice, but to enter Eurovision 1997.

	EBU has made it possible to have one commercial brake during the Eurovision. This was done after Poland, the 12th entry, had sung their song. During the brake, the TV-stations that not where commercial stations, got an extra interval act by the two female hostess of the contest, Sigal Shachmon and Dafna Dekel, who sang "Lechaim". Italy's reason not to participate does with this not exist any more, but it still took 12 years before Italy was back in Eurovision.

	The Norwegian newspaper Østlands-Posten in Larvik, reported on March 17 th 2003, that EBU's director, Bjørn Erichsen, had written a letter to LTV warning them of the possibility that Eurovision 2003 might be moved from Latvia. The reason for this was that LTV had planned the event so badly, and wrongdoings had been done in the financial and organisational planning of Eurovision.

Lebanon had a difficult first time in Eurovision. On December 15th 2004, they withdrew of financial reasons. EBU made it possible for them to participate anyway on December 20th. Then, on March 18th they had to withdraw again. Télé-Liban had on their Internet site, not included Israel as one of the participants; EBU told them that they had to include them. As a result, the participant list was deleted from the website. And finally, after this, EBU wanted to get an assurance that Télé-Liban would broadcast the Israeli song during the contest. As a result of this, Lebanon withdrew from Eurovision 2005. Télé-Liban was not permitted by the authorities to broadcast the Israeli song because of the many years of conflict between the two countries. Since EBU couldn't allow them not to broadcast the Israeli entry – they had no choice but to withdraw from participating in Kyiv, according to www.eurovision.tv.

In 1996 OGAE made a booklet over the Eurovision history, saying that Liechtenstein wanted to participate in the 1969 Eurovision, but since Liechtenstein didn't have their own television company there was not any possibility for them to participate. Later the website eurovisionsongs.net reported that this song had been asked to enter in Eurovision 1969, but this is only a rumor.

In the same OGAE booklet from 1996 it was also reported that Liechtenstein wanted to participate in the 1976 Eurovision, but since Liechtenstein still didn't have their own television company there wasn't any possibility for them to participate that year either. Rumors according to eurovisionsongs.net, is that this song had been asked to enter in Eurovision 1976. To be able to participate in Eurovision you need to be an "Active Members" of EBU, and to be a member of EBU, you need a television company.

	Moldova had a real scandal this year. These three songs tied for first place, and then the youngest juror was told to choose the song he liked best – but he refused. Hence TRM wanted to make a new contest between these three, but they wouldn't participate in it. The new contest made "Loca" the participating song to Eurovision 2006.

	Montenegro confirmed their participation in Eurovision 2023, but on October 13 th 2022, RTCG released a statement informing that they will withdraw from Eurovision 2023 of budget reasons since the cost of participating and the stay in UK is very high. RTCG will instead use their resources investing in equipment and locations for their activities in Montenegro in 2023, the statement continues.

	On May 11th – the Final-day – a statement came from EBU confirming that Joost Klein would not be allowed to participate in Eurovision. In the statement EBU said that Swedish police is investigating a complaint from a female member of the production crew after an incident following his performance in the Semi Final. EBU stated further they maintain a zero-tolerance policy towards inappropriate behaviour, providing a safe and secure working environment for all staff. « In light of this, Joost Klein's behaviour towards a team member is deemed in breach of Contest rules. » As a result of this, Netherlands was disqualified for participating in the Final.

On August 12th, the prosecutor in Sweden dropped the investigation due to lack of evidence. EBU stated as a reaction to this: «The decision to disqualify Mr. Klein from this year's event was made in strict accordance with ESC rules and governance procedures, after an internal investigation. ... [The prosecutors] investigation [was] into whether a criminal act was committed and not whether Mr. Klein behaved inappropriately and breached ESC rules and procedures.»

	The winner of the Norwegian pre-selection was the song "Jeg har aldri vært så glad i noen som deg". But after there had been accusations of plagiarism of Cliff Richard's "Summer holiday", Kari Neegaard chose to withdraw here song. NRK chose to send "Stress" instead, a song that also was sung by Odd Børre and that reached the 2nd place in the Norwegian pre-selection.

						NORWEGIAN
	No other song from the Norwegian pre-selection has turned Norway upside down as this. A few minutes after the Norwegian final, Arne Bendiksen was invited to a TV-program where a Danish wanted to analyze the text of the song. NRK's phone lines are glowing of angry Norwegian's, wanting to lynch the Dane, and there are ware types in the papers the following days. NRK want to make it good again, and has a new program. This time the audience in the studio starts to shout to one another, and when a regular fight starts in studio, the cameras are turned off. The phone lines to NRK broke down, after a million angry Norwegians calls in. NRK tries to mend this once more. They have invited Amalie Christie, a Beethoven expert, to the studio. She calls Arne Bendiksen a vampire. This is something that another Norwegian diva, Elisabeth Granneman, don't like. She shouts to Christie to shut up, and threatens to sit down on here (Granneman was very big). Christie faints - and the cameras are once again turned off. After this NRK don't dare to follow it up. There's nothing that brings out a good fight in Norway like the Eurovision.

1991	Mrs. Thompson Just 4 Fun Ett liv Heidi Halvorsen	Dag Kolsrud	P. G. Roness & Kaare Skevik Jr.	Pete Knutsen	17	14
	www.eurovisionsongs.net reports that this song was refused from the national Norwegian contest that NRK originally planned to arrange. NRK felt the songs had to low standard – and instead asked Marianne Antonsen, Jan Groth, Eirikur Hauksson and Hanne Krogh to make a song to the contest. They formed the group Just 4 Fun, just for this event. A Swedish broadcaster later made a contest of some of the songs that had been sent to the national final, and Heidi Halvorsen won that contest.

1993	Alle mine tankar Silje Vige	Bjørn Erik Vige	Bjørn Erik Vige	Rolf Løvland	5	120
	Silje's song had been transmitted on one of NRK's regional radio's almost ½ year before the Norwegian pre-selection. This was done in connection with a program about her father, Bjørn Erik Vige. NRK decided that the juror's not would have been afflicted on this transmission, and after consulting EBU, the song was sent to Ireland.

	Portugal did not participate as a protest to the voting system that made 4 winners of Eurovision 1969. But the annual 'Festival RTP da Canção' went ahead, but it was held after the Eurovision final were arranged. This song was the winner of the national contest – and it was included on the CD that was made in Portugal celebrating their 30 years in the Eurovision.					PORTUGUESE

	Julia was not allowed to travel to Kyiv because she had visited Crimea directly from Russia and not through Ukraine. That made it illegal for her to enter into Ukraine. EBU tried to come to a solution, first by asking Ukrainian officials to permit her to travel into Kyiv – and when that was refused; they suggested she could participate by video link from Russia. Russian television, C1R, refused this solution, and on April 13 th it was officially announced by EBU that Russia had withdrawn from Eurovision 2017.

	On February 25 th 2022 EBU announced that no Russian act will participate in Eurovision 2022. This decision was made after Russia's attack on Ukraine one day earlier. EBU stated that «in light of the unprecedented crisis in Ukraine, the inclusion of a Russian entry in this year's Contest would bring the competition into disrepute». At the time of the exclusion, no artist was yet chosen by Russia.

On March 1st 2022 EBU informed in a press release, that the representatives from all the Russian members of EBU was suspended from serving in EBU's governance groups. This was done as a reaction to the Russian broadcaster's announcement on February 26th to withdraw from EBU, since Russia was excluded from participating in Eurovision 2022. Since Russia has withdrawn as an EBU-member, Russia will no longer be able to participate in the Eurovision Song Contest – making the 2021 entry, their last one.

	The song was originally called “Facebook uh, oh, oh”, but on March 18 th EBU announced that the song was disqualified as it breach rule 1.2.2 of the contest that states: “No commercial messages of any kind shall be allowed”. With its title and several references to the trademark “Facebook” in the text EBU had no choice but to disqualify the song. SMRTV was allowed to present the same song, but with a different text and title, ore present an entirely new song to Eurovision 2012. SMRTV decided to change the lyrics of the song, and on March 22 nd they reviled the new version with the title “The social network song – oh oh – uh – oh oh”.

The 2005 Eurovision was the last contest that Serbia and Montenegro participated in with an entry.
2006	Serbia and Montenegro participated only as a jury member in Eurovision 2006, with no participating song in the contest. Moja ljubavi No Name On March 20 th the UJRT informed EBU that Serbia and Montenegro had failed to agree on which songs from the national Serb final "Beovizija 2006" and the national Montenegrin final "Montevizija 2006" that would participate in the Serb and Montenegrin national final "Evropesma/Europjesma 2006". Thereby they could not hold their national final. It was suggested that No Name, winner of "Montevizija", should represent Serbia and Montenegro with "Moje ljubavi", but they could not agree on this either. The result was that Serbia and Montenegro decided to withdraw from the Eurovision 2006. They still were amongst the countries that voted in the contest since they withdrew so late that they had to pay the full participation fee, this reported www.eurovision.tv .	Dalibor Nedović	Milan Perić	--	--	--
MONTENEGRIN

The 2006 Eurovision was the last contest that Serbia and Montenegro participated in.

The day after Eurovision 2006 in Athens, Serbia and Montenegro broke apart into two separate nations after a referendum in Montenegro where more than 55 % voted for an independent nation. So, this was the last entries on the joint country Serbia and Montenegro. From now on you will find these countries under they own pages: Montenegro ore Serbia.

Under the counting of the televotes the Spanish scrutineer read 300 votes for Germany, instead of the actual 3.059 votes they got. Germany therefore missed their 12 points, resulting in other countries to get fewer points from Spain. Germany therefore got the 7th place, pushing Norway down to 8th place. The other countries involved only loosed some points.

1958	Lilla stjärna Alice Babs The song was originally called "Samma stjärna lysa för oss två", but Alice Babs did not like the text. Hence someone at SR re-wrote the text, and called the song "Lilla stjärna". This didn't Åke Gerhard like, and he got his revenge by not letting Alice Babs make a record with the song. 	The pre-selection was threatened by German extremists, but they decided to wait one week and attack the German embassy instead. Lasse himself gets threatened to be kidnapped and the Swedish "rödvins-vänstern" (redwine-left), are protesting against the contest and wants it shut down for good.
1976	--	--	--	--	--	--
	SR doesn't want to let the songs be sung in any other language than what is official in the country the song comes from. SR don't want to pay as much as the larger countries either, and perhaps also the heavily protest against the contest the previous year is amongst the reasons why Sweden did not participate in Eurovision 1976.

	Carola					SWEDISH
	Carola lost all the sound in the studio during the final in Rome. The only instrument that was heard was the drums, but she continues like nothing has happened. Sweden and France got the same number of points, and for the first time since Eurovision 1969 are the new rule in use. Both have the same amount of 12-points, France has 2 10-points and Sweden 5, so Sweden wins again.

	Soleil, soleil Geraldine Olivier	--	--	--	--	-- www.eurovisionsongs.net reports that the song "Soleil, soleil" was withdrawn from Eurovision 1992 since Geraldine Olivier first had submitted the song to the French-Swiss selection committee. They had turned the song down, and then she re-wrote the lyrics and entered it into the German-Swiss selection committee. Since this was a breach of the Swiss rules, the song was disqualified by Swiss television, and they asked the runner-up, Daisy Auvray, to participate in Eurovision 1992 for Swiss.

	In the national final "Die Entscheidungsshow Eurovision Song Contest" the group was called "Heilsarmee" – the German name of the "Salvation Army". Since the EBU regulations don't allow promotion of any organization or any religions, they had to change the name of the group and change their clothes. They chose the name "Takasa", from the Swahili word for "clean" ore "pure".

	On March 6 th 2018 EBU reported that the Ukrainian broadcaster, NSTU, may had to be forced to close all it's activites because of financial reason's before the end of April 2018, putting Ukrainia's participation in Eurovision 2018 in jeopardy. But they managed to stay in business, and to participate in Lisbon.

						ENGLISH
	Ukraine withdrew from Eurovision 2019 on 27 th February. The reason was that the winner of 'Vidbir 2019', Maruv, had to sign a contract with the Ukrainian broadcaster, NSTU, which did not allow her to have concerts in Russia, talk to journalist's without NSTU's permission and not to improvise on the stage in Tel Aviv. She stated that cancelling concert's in Russia was not a problem – but she would not agree to not improvise on stage in Tel Aviv as it would prevent her artistic freedom, even though she risked to get a fine of €2 million if she did. The dispute ended in her refusal to participate in Eurovision on February 25 th . NSTU then asked Freedom Jazz to participate in Tel Aviv. Since they also refused, NSTU then asked Kazka to participate in Tel Aviv. This band also refused, so NSTU then chose to withdraw from Eurovision 2019. EBU stated to this fact that they hoped to see Ukraine back in 2020.

The 1992 Eurovision was the last contest that Yugoslavia participated in.

From 1993 you will find each of the new countries that broke out of Yugoslavia under their own names. The countries in request are, from 1993: Bosnia-Herzegovina, Croatia, Slovakia or Former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia. From 2003 also: Serbia and Montenegro. In 2006 Serbia and Montenegro broke apart from each other, and are now under their own names: Montenegro or Serbia. In 2019 the Former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia changed their name to North Macedonia.

EUROVISION SONG CONTEST ANTHEM'S

IN THE 2013 CONTEST IT WAS INTRODUCED AN EUROVISION SONG CONTEST ANTHEM
 – A SONG MADE TO THE CONTEST – AND THE PLAN WAS TO MAKE A NEW SONG EVERY YEAR.

YEAR	SONG	ARTIST	COMPOSER'S	LANGUAGE
2013	We write the story	Avicii, B&B & choir	Björn Ulvåus, Benny Andersson, Tim Bergling & Ash Pournouri	ENGLISH
2014	Rainmaker	Emilie de Forest	Emilie de Forest, Schack Glæsner & Fredrik Sonefors	ENGLISH
2015	Building bridges	Mirjam Weichselbraun, Alise Tumler, Arabella Kiesbauer & Conchita Wurst	Dorothee Freiberger, David Bronner & David Malin	ENGLISH
2016	Love love peace peace	Måns Zelmerlöw & Petra Mede	Fredrik Kempe, Edward af Sillén & Daniel Réhn	ENGLISH
2017	No song was made to the Eurovision 2017 contest. Perhaps this was a result of the crisis in the contest when many of the persons responsible for the contest resigned in a protest to the NTU. As a result of that EBU had to take over the control and headhunted peoples from TV-stations all over Europe to get the contest arranged.
2018	No song was made to the Eurovision 2018 contest.
2019	No song was made to the Eurovision 2019 contest.
2020	Eurovision 2020 was cancelled due to the Covid-19-Pandemic.
2021	No song was made to the Eurovision 2021 contest.
2022	No song was made to the Eurovision 2022 contest.
2023	No song was made to the Eurovision 2023 contest.
2024	No song was made to the Eurovision 2024 contest.
